The opportunity

On October 28, 2026, the top family law professionals spend a full day together at Loyola Marymount — forensic and valuation CPAs, family law attorneys, and judges. Half the agenda covers issues this room is still working through: cryptocurrency tracing, AI risk management and high-conflict engagements.

Sponsoring CalCPA's Family Law Conference puts you in that conversation during breaks, lunch, and in the hallway between sessions, with visibility extending to the virtual audience. It is a narrow, qualified audience with real buying authority — not a general accounting crowd.

Who is in the room

| Forensic and valuation CPAs                                                | Family law attorneys                                                              | Judges and court professionals                                        |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Trace assets, value closely held businesses and testify to what they find. | Decide which expert, which software and which service provider gets the referral. | Including a judges' panel — the bench speaking directly to this room. |
