

Join us at a Community Meeting for the future mixed-income and transit-oriented development at 9 Shortt Street

The City of Toronto has begun work on a transformational project at 9 Shortt Street. Today, the Site is a Toronto Parking Authority parking lot, and a new mixed-income and transit-oriented development is proposed to transform the Site. The Site is one of many public properties the City is investing in to support the development of 285,000 new homes in the next 10 years.

The Community Meeting will be hosted by CreateTO, the agency responsible for managing the City's real estate assets, in collaboration with the City's Planning Division, Development Review and the Housing Secretariat.

The red outline identifies the location of a new affordable development coming to 9 Shortt Street.

Community Meeting

Join us on September 11, 2025, at the Fairbank Public School, 2335 Dufferin Street from 6:30 – 8:30 p.m. CreateTO and the City of Toronto will be hosting a Community Meeting to share information and answer questions about the proposed development concept for the site. We hope you can join us to talk about this exciting project!
